SUICIDE DUE TO ILL HEALTH.

Andrew R. Dieserud, 21, Takes Poison, Severs Artery and Inhales Gas.

"I kill myself on account of ill ealth." was the message found in the oom of Andrew R. Dieserud, twentyne years old, who yesterday ended his life in his father's anartment at the Gainesboro, 216 Maryland avenue northeast, by taking poison, cutting an artery in his wrist and inhaling gas. Coroner Nevitt concluded the poison did the deadly work. The young man's been ill during the past year. He suffered from insomnia, the father said, and had lost so much sleep his mind and had lost so much sleep his mind probably was affected.

Yesterday morning young Dieserud returned from Philadelphia, where he had gone in an effort to improve his health, bringing with him poison enough to kill several men, and while other members of the family were viewing the parade he ended his life.

The deceased was a son of Juul and the late Mrs. Inga Dieserud. Coroner Nevitt gave a certificate of suicide.

SEEK TO STOP BUILDING.

Neighbors Ask Injunction Again. Sculptor Bartlett.

Justice Stafford of the District Supreme Court has cited Paul Wayland Bartlett, the sculptor, to show cause June 23 why he should not be enjoined from proceeding with a brick structure on Randolph place portheast, to which some of his neighbors take exception. George Truesdell, who sold him the property, and James C. Davenport, Martha N. Daven-

James C. Davenport, Martha N. Davenport and Daniel Beckwith, owners of property in the vicinity, filed a suit for injunction, claiming that Mr. Bartlett is violating the covenants in the deed by which he secured title to the property.

The deed provided, it is said, that a restriction of fifteen feet should be retained as to the building line of improvements which, should not gost less than $3,000. It is alleged that Mr. Bartlett is building out to the line and is disregarding the restriction observed by his neighbors in improving their properties. It is also averred that the building will not cost the minimum price set by the deed.

YOUNG GIRL IS KILLED; PARENTS ARE INJURED

Motor Cycle Driven by Gustaf Johnson Hits Wagon on Anacostia Bridge.

Helen Johnson, six years old, daugher of Gustaf and Mrs. Alice Johnson, 323 16th street southeast, was killed this morning about 12:30 o'clock as a is expected that many will go down or result of a collision between her father's motor cycle and a farmer's wagon on the bridge over Anacostia Patrick's Church, children of the St. river at Pennsylvania avenue southeast. Her parents were seriously hurt

Johnson, who is a marine, vesterday afternoon took his wife and daughter child occupying a side car attached to the motor cycle. On the return trip, and while crossing the bridge through the rain, it is stated, the marine drove his machine against the rear end of the wagon of Robert M. For having honorably completed the overturning of the motor cycle three its three occupants to the bridge, killing the child almost instantly and so seriously injuring her parents that it was not until some time after the hospital was reached that the father was able to tell his identity.

Parents May Recover.

Mrs. Johnson was unconscious when She regained consciousness this morn ing. Her husband spent a fairly comfortable night, and apparently was much improved this morning. It was stated at the hospital that both Mr. and Mrs. Johnson may recover.

Mr. Thompson went to the eleventh precinct police station and told the story of the accident. It was explained that he had a light on his wagon, as required by law, and that it was not until the collision occurred that he knew of the danger. His wagon was slightly damaged. He remained with the dead child and her injured parents until the occupant of a passing automobile took them to the hospital.

Coroner Nevitt viewed the body of the child, learned from the police the story of the accident and ordered an inquest for 3 o'clock today.
